Cindee Roby Announces Retirement from Axis

BRENTWOOD, Tenn. — May 27, 2010— Cindee Roby, who had been an integral part of the Microsoft Dynamics Practice at Axis since 2002, has announced her retirement from membership in the firm effective June 1st. Cindee, who will continue to work with Axis in a part time consulting role, plans to spend more time with her family.

She says, “I’ve worked with Axis for over 7 years and have accomplished goals that I didn’t dare even hope for myself. I now feel it’s time to pass the challenge on to the younger and equally as capable members of the Axis team.”

Cindee would like to thank everyone at Axis for believing in her and giving her what she calls “the best support a person could ever wish for.” She adds, “I can honestly say that I have become a better person for being part of the Axis team and have had the time of my life. For that I will be forever grateful.”

Cindee is especially thankful to the company founder and former CEO, Dallas Wilt, for allowing her the opportunity to become a partner and to her fellow partners Julie Gontarek, Britt Lowry, Meredith Schultenover, Greg Lemon, and Vic Alexander.

Greg Lemon, President of Axis, said, “Cindee has been a tremendous asset to Axis in the years she has been with us. It’s because of Cindee’s tireless commitment that we have such a thriving Microsoft Dynamics practice today. We and our clients have benefited greatly from Cindee’s experience and expertise. We wish her all the best in her transition and look forward to maintaining a close relationship with Cindee for many years to come.”

Cherie Zydel, who has been with Axis as Microsoft Practice Director since April 2009, will serve as the lead to all customer accounts within the Microsoft Dynamics practice going forward. Cherie is a certified PMP and has worked with Microsoft business solutions for more than 13 years.
